CairdBardon Community Programme

NEWSLETTER APRIL 2010

Fund smashes through the £1million mark

In only 3 years, the Caird Bardon Community Programme has awarded a massive £1,009,965 to community and environmental projects in West Yorkshire. This key landmark was reached in February this year when 6 new projects were told that their grant applications had been successful.

One of the latest round of successful applicants was Trees for Cities who were awarded a grant of £5,170 to create a new community woodland at Wetherby Ings. Some 2,500 trees will be planted during the project; many by local volunteers and school children. Work on the project has already begun.

Details of all projects that have received funding in the last 12 months can be found on the back of this newsletter.

Each year, £250,000 is available in grants, ranging from £5,000 to £60,000, for projects that meet the funding criteria. A full version of the criteria can be found at www.grantscape.org.uk

Important change to criteria!

The funding area has changed: all projects must now be located in the Leeds Metropolitan District.

East Leeds Community Sports Club

In September 2009, the East Leeds Community Sports Club fought off tough competition for funding and was awarded a grant of £50,000 from the Caird Bardon Community Programme. The award is to be used to convert the unoccupied Working Men's Club on Easy Road, Leeds into a Community Sports Club. The clubhouse will be the home for East Leeds Amateur Rugby League Football Club and will also be available for other community activities.

East Leeds Amateur Rugby League Football Club has 14 teams, from under 6's to veterans. They also offer volunteering opportunities to the community and run a ladies social group. They have future plans to link with the local Football Club and community group Zest who run cooking workshops for local disadvantaged people.

A spokesman for East Leeds Community Sports Club said:

"We at East Leeds currently have nearly 300 players based at the Club and 100 volunteers making it all happen. We are passionate about providing our young people not only with sport but also the family support that comes with belonging to a club that cares.

Updating the ground floor of the clubhouse with a new kitchen and dining area will allow us to provide nutritious hot food in a safe environment after the matches to all the players, and also to be able to offer the facility to local community groups to use.

We are extremely grateful to Caird Bardon for their generous funding to allow us to do this development. It wouldn't be possible without you, so a huge thank you from all at East Leeds Community Sports Club."

Caird Bardon Limited have been so impressed with the work of the Club that they have also privately sponsored the under 9's and under 14's playing kits for this season.

Steve Ward from Caird Bardon Limited said:

"It is hard not to be excited by the work this amateur rugby club are doing for their local community. Having a facility they can use as a base will allow the Club to grow and forge links with other local sports clubs and community organisations."
